Folegandros

This family-run hotel (pictured on the cover of Weekend) takes its name from the windmill that was once perched on the cliff of Hora, the main town of Folegandros, which isn't far from the island of Santorini. The views are amazing and all studio apartments, which can sleep up to five people, have balconies or terraces. There's a restaurant by the pool and the peaceful island is great to get away from it all.

Details B&B doubles are from £87 in May and late September (00 30 22860 41309, anemomilosapartments.com). British Airways and easyJet fly to Santorini, a one-hour ferry trip away
